Drug sting yields charges against 13

BY DENA BISNETTE

A sting operation by the Hancock County Metropolitan Nar-cotics Task Force has netted 13 people so far.

According to Task Force Director Glen Strong and Agents Jimmy Varnell and Gus Aime, most of the arrests involved "buy busts", situations in which offenders were attempting to sell drugs to narcotics officers, or were made after search warrants were executed at the residences of those charged.

The investigations connected with the sting, designed to obtain several arrests in a short time, started Jan. 21 and ended Jan. 27, Strong added.

In all cases, the drug involved was marijuana. During the arrests, four late model vehicles were seized along with scales, bags and other items commonly used in drug preparation and Strong said the vehicles included a Camaro, a Ford Fairmont and two Oldsmobiles.

At this time, it has not yet been determined whether the cars will be returned to the owners or whether they will become

The two most recent arrests occurred Monday, when task force agents picked up Larry Wayne Willis, 21, of Rt. 3, Box 729, Pass Christian, and Dirk A. Richardson, 18, of 668 Iolani Court, Diamondhead, Strong Both were charged with one count sale of a controlled substance and bond was set at $5,000 each. Both charges resulted from alleged attempts to sell marijuana in the Diamondhead area, and both incidents occurred Thursday.

Those arrested Saturday include William L. Harshbarger, 21, of 605 West North St.. Pass Christian. He was arrested at about 5 p.m. on US-90 at the foot of the Bay St.

Vandals see the lights on Ulman Avenue Pier

BY D.C. HARVILL

A recent act of vandalism at Bay St. Louis' Ulman Avenue Pier was more a nuisance than destructive.

Utilities Supervisor Norbert Redmond said that approximately 10 a.m. Monday he noticed the pier's lights, which are controlled by sunlight sensitive sensors, had not gone off. Upon investigation he discovered someone had "stuffed" paper over the sensors causing the lights to stay on.

Twice before, the pier had been the object of vandalism. In the first act of destruction, a wooden gazebo disappeared from the end of the pier which, at that time, had been recently renovated.

Two arrests were made in connection with the Then, last year, shortly after lights were installed the length of the pier, someone burst the bulbs which were housed in "vandal-proof" fixtures. The cost of the damage ran into the hundreds of dollars.

In spite of approximately

$2,000 in rewards for the arrest of the vandal or vandals who committed the crime, no one was apprehended for breaking

Since no destruction was done to the pier when the light sensors were blocked, the latest incidence of vandalism is not being investigated, according to Bay St. Louis Police Detective Tom Burleson.

If it is not acted upon this week, the bill could theoretically stay alive until the end of the current session, which closes April 1.

The lottery and bingo issues have brought up another matter-should the people be allowed to have initiative referendums? Franckiewicz said he believes there should be a provision allowing such the Mississippi Constitution.

At present, referendums onconstitutional amendments are initiated by the legislature, not by petition of the public.

The lottery and bingo issue have "highlighted it to the public that we don't have that right." said Franckiewicz.

In the long run, Franckiewicz feels that the initiative referenreferendums on amendments to dum would be beneficial to the state and would like to see that

911 group reactivated to deal with problems

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock County's 911 Commission is active again, trying to solve some of the problems that have been found as the Enhanced 911 system has operated.

The Enhanced 911 system officially went on line Oct. 1 and replaced an old system which covered only residents on the 467 telephone exchange and was based at Waveland Police Department.

The new system, installed by South Central Bell, provides a computer read-out of the address and telephone number from which a call is placed, along with the name of the person or business to whom the telephone is registered.

Hancock County, in a twoyear project conducted through the reappraisal department of the tax collector and assessor's office, has eliminated duplicate street names and numbered all structures, leaving room in the numbering system for new structures to be numbered as they are built.

That project was designed to reduce difficulty for ambulances, fire trucks and other emergency vehicles trying to respond to a 911 call.

One way the public can nelp is to put numbers on houses and mailboxes to make the addresses visible from the street, said Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin, who is a member of the commission.

The matter of posting numbers was publicized when the Enhanced 911 project began, but Boudin said many residents have never placed such identification on their houses.

Commission Chairman and Sheriff Ronald Peterson said other problems that have shown up in the system are still related to duplicate street In a recent incident, an ambulance was delayed because two street names were spelled almost alike, with a single letter's difference.

Both streets were located in the city of Bay St. Louis, and it is in Bay St. Louis and Waveland, both of which fall into the 467 and 466 telephone exchanges, where duplicate names are still causing difficulty, Peterson said.

According to Steve Delahoussey, who represents Mobile Medic Ambulance Service on the commission, the ambulance dispatched to the call responded to the first address given by a dispatcher from another agency in less than two minutes.

Once the vehicle was rerouted and arrived at the correct address, 18 minutes had elapsed, Delahoussey stated.

He did not state the details of the situation to protect the privacy of the patient; he did explain that the person was suffering from a life-threatening medical problem but survived despite the delay.

One way to reduce the problem is to eliminate the duplicate names, he said.

It would also help if dispatchers, who are located at the Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Departments and the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, would use automatic switching equipment to relay calls for other emergency services directly to the agencies supplying those services, Delahoussey added.

Another problem pointed out was computer read-outs and print-outs giving county addresses with no house numbers, although those numbers have already gone into use. 911—Page 8A

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Arbor Day is celebrated during the month of February across this nation.

It is a special day set aside for the planting of trees to take the place of those which may have died during the previous year.

Tree loss in Hancock County can be very rapid because of our location on the Gulf of Mexico.

We in Hancock County know what it is to have trees removed by the thousands in just one day.

Hurricanes such as Camille have wiped out the majority of our trees, many of them were more than 100 years old.

Many trees have been replanted, yet there is a need for more trees to replace others which may have died because of age and the elements. The recent cold spell during the Christmas holidays will probably be the cause of the loss of some trees.

Hurricane Camille destroyed five mature pecans trees on my property, but I have replaced them.

Ironically, one of the replacements, which happened to be the fastest growing one planted next to our garden, was destroyed by Hurricane Elena.

Live oaks in the area take generations to mature, but many of them would not be here unless they were planted by someone years ago.

Live oak trees planted today will be admired by generations down the road.

There are many organizations that push for the planting of trees, such as garden clubs and the Friendship Oak Chapter of the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mayor Edward Favre of Bay St. Louis and Mayor John Longo of Waveland have both signed a proclamation designating February as tree planting time in their respective cities.

It is not just the beauty trees offer that make them important in our lives. Some trees give fruits, nuts and Trees are used to build our homes and most important of all, trees help clean our nation's air, expand water sheds and anchor our soils.

Remember, Feburary is tree planting month for the area.

Today begins the month of February, so it will be not too long before many residents will begin to get their fishing gear together.

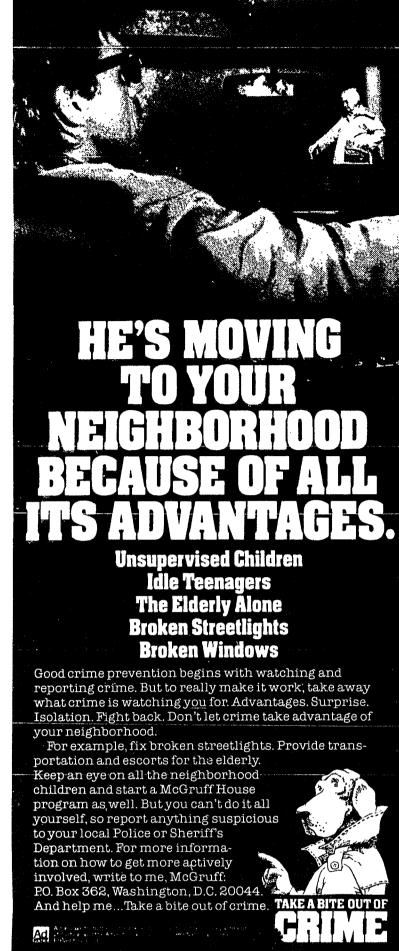

Those who operate boats may want to take advantage of Bay-Waveland Floatilla No. 33 of the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary's class on "Boating Skills

The classes will begin on Feb. 12 at 7 p.m. and be held on each Monday through April 2.

The public education classes will be taught at the Diamondhead Community Center and will cover 13 major subjects pertaining to boating.

The classes are designed to make it possible for all to better enjoy their boating experiences and to do it in a safe manner.

Reader questions NASA's need for amount of buffer zone acreage

The 125,327 acres that compasse the Stennis Space Center's acoustical buffer zone was designed to mitigate the loud-low frequency sound waves generated from testing of rocket engines like that of the Nova first stage with a capacity of 12,000,000 pounds of thrust.

There was consideration for larger engines producing up to about 25,000,000 pounds of thrust. The Nova vehicle concept was cancelled in 1963. Nevertheless, the I-10 bridge crossing the Pearl River reflects the physical size of the stages to the massive Nova vehicle which would have passed under.

To date, there has never been a more powerful rocket propulsion system tested in the United States than the Saturn V first stage which was tested at the Marshall Space Flight Center just as many times if not more than it was tested at the Stennis Space Center.

The Marshall Space flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., consists of only 40,000 acres owned by the government. Based on calculations of the first stage of the Nova vehicle, the Stennis Space Center's acoustical buffer zone boundry was set at 110 decibels, although it was stated that 115 decibel boundary was needed for launching.

Furthermore, in the preliminary site selection study it was stated that only 10,000 feet distance was needed for personal acoustical safety and 6,800 feet distance was needed for inhabited buildings. Rock and Roll concerts generate about 120 decibels. Even the loosely written Advanced Solid Rocket Motor, (ASRM), Environmental Impact Statement, (EIS) figures indicated that only 12 percent of the SSC

The EIS also stated that field studies on animals did not show concern for exposure below 120 decibels. Marshall Space Flight Center did a sound suppression study in the early 60's which indicated that the noise level

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Cochran outlines legislative 1990 congressional agenda

Senator Thad Cochran says he will be heavily involved in agricultural and education legislation during the new session of Congress.

Speaking recently with several reporters from Mississippi news media organizations, the senator predicted the Senate would soon be considering a new farm bill and major vocational education legislation.

In a question and answer discussion, Cochran warned against cutting the nation's defense structure too soon until 'future events' determine the permanency of changes in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

He also said any 'peace dividend' should initially be used to reduce the federal budget deficit. The senator said the deficit was a "threat to our economic health."

Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations panel on Defense, said he was optimistic Mississippi military installations would survive any future reductions.

"Our facilities are very modern and very important to the overall defense of the United States," he commented.

The senator predicted the Agriculture Committee would put the 1990 farm bill on a 'fast tack' and that it basically would be a continuation of the 1985 legislation now in effect.

He also said a reauthorization of vocational education programs would provide "substantial amounts of federal funding" for community college and vocational center programs in Mississippi.

In his discussion with the Mississippi reporters, Cochran was asked his views on a capital gains tax cut, Social Security taxes, campaign finance reform and other education initiatives he is sponsoring.

His comments came as Congress reconvened in the second session of the 101st Congress.

State Representative sold on value of using seat belts.

State Rep. Tommy Woods of is worth it. Byhalia was already sold on the value of using seat belts. But on Jan. 8, when he was returning to the state Capitol for the second week of the 1990 legislative session, his belief in seat belts was reaffirmed. At the corner of the Capitol grounds, his car was struck on the passenger side by another car going in the wrong direction. Woods' wife, Jan, was sitting in the passenger seat, near the point of impact.

Because the Woodses had their seat belts fastened, they were not thrown around and came out of the accident uniniured. "We were thankful that we had our seat belts on," said the northeast Mississippi iawmaker.

That experience fortified Woods' determination to push for enactment of a seat belt bill he had already filed.

Last week, Woods pushed through the House by a surprising 88-29 vote his bill, making it mandatory for drivers and front seat passengers to wear seat belts in Mississippi.

But the House-passed measure is missing one major ingredient: It does not contain a penalty for not wearing one.

Woods has taken some editorial jibes that a seat belt law without a fine is meaningless. As is often the case in dealing with the Mississippi Legislature, settling for half a loaf is better than getting nothing. Realistically, Woods and backers of his bill know there was no way to get a seat belt law with a penalty through the Legislature at this juncture.

Two years ago, a no-penalty seat belt bill had passed the Senate, but it couldn't even get out of the House committee.

As it was, Woods only managed to get his bill through the House Transportation Committee last week by a 1-10 vote. Hence, the size of the floor vote in favor of the measure must be called "surprising."

Now the House bill will be up to the Senate where the early indications are that it should face smooth sailing.

Both Woods, and the state Department of Public Safety, which is backing his measure, recognize that enactment of a seat belt law that does not impose a fine is just a starting point, but they believe the effort

"If we can get the law on the books, then we can strengthen it down the road," said Roy Thigpen, director of the division of Public Safety Planning for the Department of PUblic

"This is not designed to har-ass people. It is designed to make people safety conscious. A seat belt law can save lives, even without a penalty," he added.

Mississippi safety authorities are hoping the experience of the seat belt law in Minnesota will be a useful model for this state.

In 1986, Minnesota enacted a no-penalty seat belt law. Usage of seat belts there was only 20 percent prior to the law. After passage of the law, seat belt usage went up to 33 percent even without a penalty.

Two years later, when the Minnesota Legislature amended the law and provided a $10 fine for violations, usage of seat belts jumped to 47

Mississippi now has one of the lowest seat belt usage rates in the nation—17 percent.

At the same time, based on 1988 national figures, Mississippi, with 27.56 deaths per 100,000 population, had one of the three highest fatality rates in the country.

A recap of Mississippi's 1988 traffic fatalities by the Depart-ment of Public Safety shows that 97 percent of the drivers killed in accidents were unbelted, and 96 percent of front seat passengers killed were not wearing belts.

Based on experience of other states after a seat belt law was enacted, Mississippi could save as many as 216 lives and could reduce the economic drain from loss of life, medical expenses and property damage by $165 million, Thigpen estimates. "If we could save one life or one serious injury, this bill will be worth it," said Woods. He believes that being able to put up signs which say "Missis-sippi Law: Buckle Up," will have a salutary effect on Missis-sippi drivers to use their seat

"A lot of people will adhere to it, because its the law," Woods

Let's hope so.

At this point we do feel that over a period of years, we probably are going to be able to make some savings in defense spending, but I want to emphasize over a period of year.

First we must determine what is happening there, develop a plan and then implement it carefully. We should not unilaterally start eliminating projects, manpower, or programs until we know for certain what the Soviet Union is going to be doing. We also must remember that there are other parts of the world where there are problems affecting our national security, and we must be prepared to LOTT PAGE 5A

I want to assure the people across the state of Mississippi that while there are international and national implications of the defense budget, there also are implications affecting Mississippi.

If we're careful, if we're cautious, if we have a plan, Mississippi installations and Mississippi jobs should do quite well. As an example, the withdrawal of Army troops from Europe portends a greater reliance on the Navy which maintains a strong presence throughout the state of Mississippi

Ingalls Shipbuilding in Pascagoula is hiring almost 2,000 new employees to handle Navy contracts extending into the mid-'90s. The ranks of Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi will soon swell from the transfer of troops from Illinois.

But if the Congress gets out of control and tries to spend the so-called peace dividend now, it could have an impact 'n Mississippi. If we try to cut $20 billion out of the defense budget this year, that could be devastating. We just cannot afford to do it. The economy could not afford it. So I assure you as a senator from Mississippi and as a member of the Armed Services Committee, I'm going to be spending a lot of time in this area working very carefully to make sure the Congress does it right.

engines could be reduced by 15 to 20 decibels at the source.

Records of testing the Saturn V first stage at SSC showed that the 110dB level did not reach the 28,800 acre area in the buffer zone south of I-10 even on days when the meteorological conditions were not favorable and that when the meteorological conditions were favorable the 110dB level barely made it out of the 13,480 acre fee area. The state of Mississippi and the EPA Region IV does not find it necessary to impose noise regulations or standards.

NASA officials have stated that the buffer zone is needed by other agencies located at SSC such as the Army and Navy but they produce no evidence, nor does the Army or Navy.

NASA officials have stated that the buffer zone needs to be maintained in its present size and configuration to win future contracts for testing rocket engines.

Again, they produce no evidence, just as the ASRM EIS produces no evidence that you will not be adversely affected from chemical fall-out due to static testing the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor. Joey G. Manieri

If you've decided to pay some-Yone to do your federal tax return, the IRS suggests you take your selection of a tax practitioner as seriously as if you

Although the IRS cannot recommend specific tax practitioners, it does offer the following suggestions:

-Select someone, or some firm, that you feel will be available if you have questions about the preparation of your tax return, months, or even years after it has been filed.

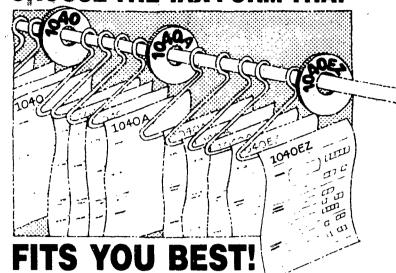

—Avoid any tax practitioner who claims that he or she can get you a larger tax refund than another practitioner, or those whose fees are based on a percentage of your refund, or who claim a special "in" with the

-If you feel your return is going to be unusually involved, due to such tings as complex investments, moving expenses or large casualty losses, be sure your practitioner is knowledgeable in these tax areas.

-Take your tax package you receive in the mail to your practitioner so he or she can use your forms and your peel-off label and the envelope provided by the IRS.

-If you are planning to file your return electronically to benefit from the much faster refund return time, call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-1040. They can tell you who in your area is able to transmit your return to the IRS.

Good recordkeeping helps

One of the best tax aids available to taxpayers cannot be found in any store, or even at the Internal Revenue Serviceit is a good recordkeeping system, and it is not hard to get

The first rule to recordkeep ing is to be consistent. Taxpayers should establish a set place to file information, be it a desk drawer, a file cabinet, or simply a box on a shelf.

Separate folders or envelopes should be labeled for each tax topic, such as income, various itemized deduction expenses, costs of assets, and tax credit and payment information. Any cancelled checks, bills, receipts, or statements relating to any category should be filed in the proper folder as soon as pessible. Having all tax records availble and organized helps taxpayers to file their federal tax returns at the end of the year, saving the time and aggravation caused by trying to reconstruct the year's events at the last minute.

Good records also make tax and financial planning easier. And finally, it allows taxpayers to answer any questions the IRS may have in the future regarding tax returns filed.

Tax benefit for low-income families

The Earned Income Credit (EIC) helps low-income families with children to keep more of the income they earn.

To be eligible for the credit: · you must have earned income, such as wages, tips, or earnings from selfemployment; both your earned income and adjusted gross income must be less than $19,340; your filing status must be

Head of Household, Married Filing a Joint Return, or Qualifying Widow(er) with Dependent Child; and you must have one or more children living with you in the United States for more than half the year (the entire year if you file as a qualifying widow(er) or the child is a foster

"Child" is defined slightly differently for each filing status.

The credit can be as much as $910 and may be refunded to you if you owe no other taxes. To get the credit, file either Form 1040 or 1040A, even if you otherwise do not have to file a return.

In addition, taxpayers who previously did not file to get EIC for fear of reducing or losing Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) should the aware that as of October 1, 1989, the credit will no longer be considered income in deter-mining AFDC benefits.

TAX TIPS FOR 1990

Tax law changes

EXEMPTIONS INCREASE

The amount of each personal increased to $2,000 for 1989—up from last year's amount of $1950. (As was previously the case, if you are entitled to claim another taxpayer as a dependent, that person cannot claim himself or herself as an exemption too.) PERSONAL INTEREST

Personal interest expenses (interest on a personal loan, bank credit card interest, etc.) that can be deducted will drop to 20 percent for 1989. SS NÚMBERS

Now you are required to give the social security number of any dependent you claim who will be two years old or older at the end of the tax year.

Applications and information can be obtained from the Social Security Administration.

SAVINGS BONDS

Beginning in 1990, most taxand dependency exemption has payers age 24 or older may exclude from income, interest on redeemed Series EE U.S. savings bonds issued after 1989 if the taxpayers pay tuition and required fees for themselves, their spouses, or dependents at an eligible educational institution.

CHILD'S INTEREST INCOME

Starting with this year's federal tax return, if a child has more than $500 but less than $5,000 in interest or dividens (including Alaska Permanent Fund Dividend), no federal income tax withheld, and no earned income, the parents may be able to choose to include this unearned income on their own

However, the child must be under 14 years of age at the end of the parent's tax year. If this is done, the child does not have to file a tax return.

Beginning in 1989, if part of a child's income is taxed at the parent's tax rate, the child is not eligible for the regular exemption amount when figuring alternative minimum tax.

The child's alternative minimum tax exemption amount will be limited to $1,000 plus the child's earned income. (The alternative minimum tax is a special tax designed to ensure that all taxpayers pay at least some tax regardless of the deductions and tax credits to which they may be entitled).

SELF-EMPLOYED

Both self-employed individuals and now their employees may choose to be exempt from paying social security taxes if they are members of a religious faith that is conscientiously opposed to the acceptance of public or private insurance benefits.

TARGETED JOBS

The targeted-jobs credit that permits employers to claim a tax credit for wages paid to members of certain targeted groups was extended through 1989. Further information can be found in free IRS Publication 572, General Business Credit.

The cash wages of some seasonal hand-harvest laborers, as of 1988 are no longer subject to social security tax. More details appear in free IRS Publication 225, Farmer's Tax Guide. FUEL PURCHASE

Some purchasers of diesel and nongasoline aviation fuels for off-highway business uses became, as of Jan. 1, 1989, exempt from paying excise tax on these purchases.

To get the automatic extension, you must file Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," and forward it by April 16, 1990 to the IRS processing center for your area.

But remember, an extension of time to file is NOT an extension of time to play.

Who claims whom?

Once students reach age 24, the rules for who can claim their personal exemptions change.

Students who are 24 or older by the end of the tax year may not be claimed by their parents if their gross income exceeds the amount of their personal exemption ($2,000 for 1989). However, at that point, they may claim their own exemptions on their own tax returns.

Here in Hancock County, a non ber of veterans' organizations have continued playing Lingo in the wake of statements from District Attorney Cono Caranna and Sheriff Ronald Peterson who both stated that they do not plan to shut games down intil they receive specific orders from Jackson

Out of a randem sampling taken of those organizations. oray one, American Legion Post as in Standard, is presently not conducting bingo games as fundraising projects, and that post Source comes down last May, care bingo became

Bit. Fivre explained that the hour was discentinued for the sortain because lack of artendance was causing a loss of money a stair than generating money for donations to Veterans Administration hospitals, Mississippe Burn Center, Ellisville State School, Gulf Coast Women's Center and other organizations

All but two of the projects were discontinued during the absence of bingo, and those which received donations from Post 58 received significantly less, Favre stated.

One delay in restarting the bingo was a lack of funds to start again, she added."

Bingo was supposed to resume this Sunday and fliers have already been printed, but a decision on whether games will actually take place is not expected until later in the week.

Anyone who had planned to play may call 255-2666 to find out what that decision is, Favre

Several ladies' auxiliaries have no fund raising projects other than bingo. Lou Wilker son of American Legion Post 139 said other projects bring in funds from time to time, but bingo is the only steady Margie Schultz, who volunteers her time at Post 139 and for the bingo at the Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Bay St. Louis, said hospitalized veter ans would be the ones who would suffer most.

A number of veterans' organizations and auxiliary rep resentatives stated that bingo money goes for projects helping hospitalized veterans, ranging from providing personal hygiene items the government will not pay for, including toothbrushes and shaving cream, to taking them on monthly field

Several of them are also using bingo money to finance community work, such as providing <cholarships, cash donations to charities, American Legion Boys and Girls State programs; sponsorships for sports-teams and scout troops and school awards.

Edward Murtagh of American Legion Post 139 explained that bingo is somewhat expensive to operate, but alternative methods of raising funds, such as dances, are more expensive-and less successful.

Bingo also provides a social activity for some of the elderly in the community and for elderly veterans, he said.

"It's definitely the community that would be hurt," he explained.

In addition, American Legion facilities are often used by the public for projects such as blood drives, American Legion Post 77 Commander Lawrence Freeman stated.

His post has bingo games three nights a week.

"If we depended on just our dues, we wouldn't have money for anything," he stated.

In Kiln, VFW Post 6285 is t ying to build softball fields for children, men and women to use, a project that could cost up to $60,000 before it is finished. The VFW also participates in school award programs to help students with their educational expenses, said Mildred Lee, a representative of the post's auxiliary unit.

Lee was with a group which went to Jackson to help lobby for the lottery and has brought back a petition to try to get an initiative referendum on it.

"If we get the lottery, we're sure we can get bingo," she

Her post has had twiceweekly bingo games for about a year now, and she praised Attorney General Mike Moore for trying to do away with bingo-for-profit operations which hurt charitable games like those the VFW holds.

"If they do away with charitable bingo, we won't be able to finish the ballparks or help out the way we do," she said.

A sheriff's department representative, Gloria Tartavoulle, said a recurring problem is calls for Picavune. The screen designates that they are in Hancock County's emergency service area, but they are actually in Picayune's area.

An additional problem noticed by dispatchers in her office consisted of several screen read-outs despite the fact that no one called.

"When we'd call back, the people were really upset and said they hadn't called," she explaineď.

Peterson said he is making arrangements with South Central Bell and other agencies for correction of the problems and would contact the cities with regard to the duplicate addresses.

Until the problems are corrected, the commission will continue its meetings. Other action taken at the January meeting included appointment of Robert Lee, interim Bay St. Louis

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

The wing is my favorite part of the chicken, so I am always cooking up chicken wings in one fashion or another, and enjoying them, of course!

The "mini-drumsticks," the first, meaty joint of the wing, are, of course, delicious Southern Fried Chicken style-but these chicken bits are also tasty when sauteed in butter and with fresh chopped parsley and lemon slices, or stewed or braised and served with mushroom rice, or in a sweet and sour sauce or rich tomato sauce and so on and on, accordmg to your fancy and what's on hand in your kitchen for mixing up with the chicken pieces.

And the mini-drums or drumettes are marvelous as appetizers—and quite thrifty a choice as well! Sometimes I serve them in a chafing dish, in whatever sauce I've mixed up, along with tiny hot dogs, sausages and meatballs-and you may be sure that they disappear quickly.

And, whenver I cook up a don't—if you use it, don't over D. M. Caire) batch of the drumettes for myself and Peanuts-the-Fat-

Cat, we munch happily until they're all gone. A special favorite is:

MINI-DRUMS IN BEER SAUCE 2 or 3 dozen chicken wings

1/2 cup soy sauce 1 cup pineapple juice 1/4 cup brown sugar 1 clove garlic, minced

1 Tblsp.minced onion 1 level tsp. ground ginger, optional but good 1 cup tired beer*

Butter or margarine for browning chicken

*"Tired" beer is just beer which you have opened and let sit awhile before you start the

First, cut off the top and end joints of the wings. (Save for chicken stock or soup.) Combine the soy sauce, pineapple juice, and brown sugar in a bowl, then toss in the garlic and onion and the ginger, if you're using the latter. Some like ginger, some

Next, add the cup of beer, and stir it all together, then pour this sweet-sour marinade over the mini-drums, using a deep howl so that all the pieces are well bathed in the marinade. Let this sit for three or four hours in the fridge, or at least for an hour or so at room temperature. Drain off the marinade but don't throw it away, set it aside.

Brown the chicken pieces in butter or margarine, and perhaps a bit of oil to keep from sticking and burning. Add a half cup of the reserved marinade to the pan, cover and simmer for 20 minutes or so, or until chicken is tender. Peek in the pan from time to time, and add more of the marinade if needed, lest the chicken dry out.

Serve hot, with the remainder of the marinade spooned over, or, if there's a lot of the sauce, in a separate bowl for dunking. Number of servings depends upon how hungry you are for chicken wings!

TIME OUT

By Dena Bisnette

Athletes have a sort of special bond between them. whether they know each other personally or not, and many will take the opportunity to help another who is in need...

The announcement below originally came to The Sea Coast Echo in the form of a flier handed out during the halftime of some of the games at the St. Stanislaus Basketball Tournament. We thought maybe some of the people who weren't able to attend the tournament might want to help

The Mississippi Association of Coaches (M.A.C.) is trying to collect money to help pay the medical expenses of Allen Moore, a high school football player from Northeast Lauderdale High School near Meridian.

Moore's coach, Tack Moore (no relation to the player), said Moore is paralyzed from the neck down as a result of an injury similar to the one suffered by Chucky Mullins of University of Mississippi.

Because all available insurance has been used up since the injury occurred Sept. 22 and because a settlement under a catastrophic health plan through the National Federation of High School Sports is expected to take two to three years and still fall short of what is needed, the association is asking for donations.

The M.A.C. itself will begin sending $150 per month when a medical statement is received from Moore's doctors, but has set a goal of $100,000 in donations to the Allen Moore Foundation Fund, Bank of Meridian, P.O. Box 1271, Meridian, MS 39302.

Local M.A.C. members have been asked to assist by taking up collections at sports events, organizing a fund drive or contacting civic clubs.

Anyone else who would like to help can send a donation to the address above or can obtain more information from Coach Tack Moore at (601)679-8523 or Bernard Blackwell at (601)924-0734.

Applications are now being accepted by the Alabama Gulf Coast Conservation Association for two George Barber Scholarships, which are open to students from Mississippi as well as Alabama and Northwest Florida.

Students must be undergraduates or graduates pursuing a career in marine science and engaged in research related to coastal resources.

For applications contact Bob Shipp at the Mobile, Ala., office of the Gulf Coast Conservation Association by calling (205)478-3474.

Fishermen, don't forget the Bureau of Marine Resources public hearing at 7 p.m. tonight at the Hancock County Courthouse. The discussion will focus on the proposed limits for cobia and redfish.

The proposed cobia limit for recreational fishermen is two fish per day with a minimum length of 33 inches, fork length. There is no specific limit proposed on redfish, which are currently banned from commercial harvest in order to give biologists enough time to come up with a management plan.

There is still some time to qualify for the new coastwide seniors' tennis league that is being formed for men and women age 50 or older.

The team will play Volvo League doubles competition with ratings of 3.0, 3.5, 4.0 amd 4.5. The deadline for teams to be formed is Saturday, but players can have their ratings verified either Saturday at Bayou Bluff Tennis Club or Sunday at Diamondhead. Both verifications begin at 1:30 p.m. Players need not be members of an existing tennis club to participate. For more information, call Mary McDonnell at 255-1556.

Here's something for the younger set that doesn't exactly fit under the heading "Sports" but is related: the Hancock County Recreation Association is starting a "Second Home" after-school program at North Bay Elementary. The program begins March 5 but the registration deadline is Feb. 9.

Activities will include classes, tutoring, movies, games and other activities from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Any student from kindergarten through sixth grade may attend the program. Registration fliers may be picked up at Ruth's Bakery on Court Street.

The Hancock County Recreation Association also has another of its freestyle bicycle and skateboard competitions Saturday, beginning at noon at the Valena C. Jones Gymnasium. Cycles Plus will host the competition.

Bicycle registration will be from noon until 1 p.m., with competition immediately following. Entry fee is $5 and categories include beginner, intermediate and advanced. Skate registration is 3 p.m. until 4 p.m. with competition starting at 4 p.m. Entry fee is $5 with four categories to choose from, including beginner A and B, intermediate, advanced and sponsored.

Refreshments are available and safety equipment is required. Admission for spectators is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Items for Time Out should be submitted to The Sea Coast Echo by Tuesday afternoon for publication in Thursday's paper. They may be dropped off at the Echo office, mailed to P.Q. Box 2009, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520 or submitted by telephone at 467-5474.

Garrett, Necaise named to SSC All-Tournament team

The championship game in the second annual St. Stanislaus Invitational Basketball Tournament came down to a battle of the out-of-towners Saturday as Philadelphia Tornadoes blew away the Gulf Breeze, Fla. Dolphins, 46-18

In the low-scoring game, the Dolphins could only manage eight points in the first half to the Tornadoes' meager 13. The pace picked up a little in the second half with the Tornadoes outscoring Gulf Breeze 21-3 in the third period and 12-7 in the final quarter of play.

Vandy Hobson of Philadelphia was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. Other members of the All-Tournament team were Micah Necaise of Bay Senior High, Bubba Wilson of Stone County, Shannon Garrett of St. Stanislaus, Maurice Stephens and Calvin Williams of Pascagoula, Cameron McGee and Eric Holstman of Gulf Breeze, and Mark Stribling and Chris Johnson of Philadelphia. .

In the consolation game for third place, the Rock-A-Chaws faced the Pascagoula Panthers and played even ball through three quarters, only to fall 64-72 in the final minutes of

Bay High pounces on East Central

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay High Tigers pulled ahead in the first quarter and stayed there Tuesday night, beating East Central 76-60.

In first quarter play, the Tigers got ahead with 19 points, but East Central was breathing down their necks with 17, a spokesman for the Tigers said.

The Tigers widened the margin in the second quarter with the help of a couple of steals by Calvin Thigpen and David Weems, pulling ahead to a halftime lead of 38-32.

Bay High still kept its lead in the second half, finishing the game with a 76-60 victory. Leading scorers for the Tigers were Mike Scharp and Weems, with 19 points each. Will Seymour contributed 10 rebounds, including seven off the defensive boards.

Weems was also credited with six assists.

For their next game, the Tigers will travel Friday to Picayune. Junior varsity play begins at 5 p.m., with the varsity game following at about 8

The Rocks led 34-32 at the half, and the score was tied 40 all at the end of three quarters.

Shannon Garrett and Chris Perronne paced the Rocks with 14 each, Cedric Smith added 11, Ken Booker 10, Roger Maxey nine, and Galen Smith six.

"We felt like the tournament was a success," commented Rock head coach Chuck Genin after the final game. "The fans got their money's worth; each night had at least one game that went to the final seconds."

On the opening night of the tourney, Thursday, the Rock-A-Chaw downed the Bay High Tigers 65-45, and Pascagoula slipped by Stone County 54-53.

Friday night, the Tornadoes from Philadelphia soundly defeated Pascagoula 64-45, and Gulf Breeze edged Stanislaus 59-57 in the final seconds of

In the other consolation bracket game, Stone County upended Bay High 72-43.

Genin added words of thanks to all who helped to make the tournament a success.

"We would like to thank each team and their supporters for their participation. We would also like to thank the following businesses for their help in making our tournament a success: Lane's Chicken, Honey Cream Donuts, Monti Electric, Loiacano's Health Club, as well as Brother Pierre and the St. Stanislaus kitchen staff," said

Eklund moves to Tennis World as Diamondhead's new pro

Tennis World in Diamondhead has started 1990 with a new pro, Magnus Eklund.

Eklund succeeds Liz Lagarde, who served as Tennis World's resident professional for more than two years before moving to Bayou Bluff Tennis

Eklund arrived just in time to find that a late December freeze had left damages to Tennis World's eight clay courts and other facilities, so his first priorities are repairs and improvements.

Once those are underway, he wants to continue existing programs, such as the annual junior and senior sanction tournaments, and start some new also planning a junior day camp of Southern Mississippi, where projects.

The two projects for which Eklund has highest hopes are a new pro-am doubles invitational he is setting up for March 11 and, in September, a combination tennis and golf tournament co-hosted by Tennis World and Diamondhead Country Club.

A ladies' Volvo League is already practicing and a total of 13 tournaments of various types are already scheduled, but Eklund hopes to fit a couple of collegiate tournaments in this year. He also will begin presenting group clinics for several levels on March 6.

"I'm hoping for a lot of participation in the tournaments. I'm this summer and will try to bring in people for an adult camp," Eklund added.

"I haven't played in many tournaments myself for the past three years and want to play in more now that I'm here," he Eklund spent the last three years in Florida working as a pro at Sandestin Beach Resort. Destin, Fla., but he is a native of Sweden. He has a degree in athletic administration and coaching from Lillsved University in Stockholm and helped managed a junior academy there, where nationally ranked junior players honed their tennis slills. He also attended University he played varsity tennis, and has done some coaching in Canada.

After returning to Sweden, he coached and played in the Swedish Tennis League from 1976 to 1987 and competed against players like Kent Carllson, who was ranked fifth in the world in 1988.

Ecklund is certified by both the United States Professional Tennis Association and the Swedish Professional Tennis Association.

More information about tournaments and programs at Tennis World is available from Eklund at 255-2525, ext. 300.

Diamondhead Boaters Association

Special to the Echo By Liz and Bud Barnes

Diamondhead Boaters have embarked on what is expected to be another highly successful year of festivities, fellowship and frivolity. Each year the Boaters Association 'transmogrifies' into the Krewe of Kamehameha for the Mardi Gras season.

This year's krewe sponsored a gala coronation ball on Jan. 20 to crown King Akua Kai XVI, R. B. Boatright, and Queen Nina Cotton to reign throughout the year and specifically during the Mardi Gras season.

Sir Thomas McMurry, ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the Court of Kamehameha, presided over the coronation ceremonies with due pompousness.

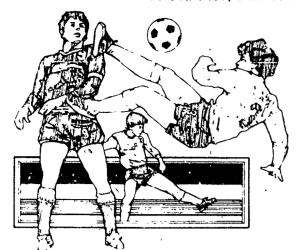

The ceremonies were initated with the introduction and honoring of the first 14 kings and queens of Kamehameha. The reigning monarchs, King Akua Kai XV, Curtis Stout, and Queen Gladvs McCook received a special introduction and were seated on their thrones in the presence of the former monarchs.

The king- and queen-elect were presented to the court and exchanged places on the thrones with the outgoing royalty. The regal splendor of Queen Nina was augmented by her glitter-

USM soccer team to sponsor skills clinic for Bay Area Youth Soccer

Bay Area Youth Soccer interleague spring season competition is in the third week of games in the Under-12 and Under-14 age groups.

In girls' competition, Coach Bernard Tusa's Under 12 girls Take One Video team remains undefeated for the spring season, posting its third victory on

In a double-header series, the BAYS girls defeated the Slidell girls Under-12 team by a score of 4-1 and then followed with a victory over Gulfport girls, Under-12 by a score of 3-0.

Saturday, January 27.

Coach Tusa credited the entire team with a fine performance. He also stated that the team has a good chance of winning the Gulf Coast League competition and go on to district. He feels there is a definite potential for the girls' state championship team from the BAYS this year.

The Under-10 boys will great up for regular season play beginning Feb. 3 and the Under-8 age group begins competition on Feb. 10. The entire league will be in full swing by mid-February.

The University of Southern Mississippi Championship Team is coming to Bay St. Louis this Sunday for a skills clinic for youth players of all age groups.

In 1989, the USM soccer team, under the direction of Dr. Frank Glamser, PhD, compiled an impressive season of 19 wins and one loss to win their division in Southeastern Conference competition. The team will be presenting a skills clinic at the St. Augustine Seminary fields from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 4. This cost is $5 per youth and the proceeds will help fund the USM soccer team's upcoming trip to England to give them an insight to World Soccer competition. In return, every youth player participating in the clinic has a golden opportunity for some one-on-one instruction and tips on improving their playing skills.

All youth players from Under-3 to Under-19 stand to gain from this skills clinic. In addition, other players besides Bay Area Youth Soccer players are invited to attend, as are any youths wanting to improve their soccer skills. The fee may be paid at the field.

Players should bring shinguards and a soccer ball for the clinic. For additional information, contact Tom Demboski at 467-4773.

your yard.

"Robin red breast." The ageless bird of every child's stories. The bird mentioned in endless poems. The sign of spring, hope of warmth after months of cold; green leaves soon to come. A special bird, we all agree

Let's dispel a few myths about this bird down South First of all, when you see Robins in January or February, they have not just arrived. They are just becoming a little more active about hunting for worms and insects. They're just more apparent than they have been since November

Robins are reported in all Mississippi coastal counties in large numbers November through Spring Breeding was suspected but not confirmed until 1983. Interesting, huh?

The contest is part of Burreas promotional compage, for year's new pumpkin varie: alled Prizewinner. The con-· -t winner, to be announced Nev 30, will get $10,000. The second place winner will receive a Troy-Bilt tiller, and there will he 50 winners of Burpee gift certificates.

this time. This is a one time offer with the award being made before the end of the year.

I don't plan to enter the contest, but if I did, this would be my game plan. First, I would order the seeds early out of fear that the company might run out if I waited until near planting Contest rules specify the pampkin must be verifiable as urpee's new hybrid Prizewinr, and the pumpkin must not he damaged in any way. It must be weighed on a certified scale and the weight verified by a weigh-master, county extension agent or county official. The grower also must record the girth of the pumpkin.

Once the first and second place pumpkins are selected, a Burpee representative will inspect the individual pumpkins. In case of a tie in weight, the girth will be the deciding factor. Additional tie breakers were not described in the contest rules.

What an introduction for a new variety! Burpee, you may remember, offered a similar award a few years ago for a pure white marigold.

As I recall, it was several years after the announcement before a gardener came up with a plant that met their standards. There will be no waiting planting site or sites. Pumpkins sun, a relatively Prizewinner is described as requiring 120 days from planting to maturity, but weather and growing conditions can cause this to vary. Therefore, I'd probably begin planting seeds around the middle of June and continue until the middle of July. Plant about three seeds per hill with the intention of thinning to the strongest plant. Space the hills about 8 feet

The plants will begin to flower and set fruit in August, and success will depend largely on what happens in the next six to eight weeks. It is critically important that only one pumpkin be allowed to develop on each plant. This means selecting one fruit in its early stages of development and removing all other small pumpkins and female blossoms as they

You can't afford to lose any leaves to diseases or insects so a regular spray schedule becomes very important. Also, the plants should not lack for water or sufficient nutrients at any time, of Bay St. Louis was recently water or burn them with fertilizer in your effort to grow the winning pumpkin.

Some other steps I would consider are orienting the pumpkin when still small so that it rests on its blossom end, supporting the vine over the developing fruit, shading the developing pumpkin so that it didn't cook

It sounds like a lot of work yet it could be a lot of fun. And who know, you might get lucky.

THE SEA COAST ECHO-THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1990-1C

Is there life after dark in Hancock's twin cities?

Just around midnight

Some signs say it all, like this one at Waffles in Bay St. Louis

The day's last ray of light left Bay St. Louis and Waveland hours ago and the sidewalks are still in place. Not many people are around to use them but they haven't been rolled up.

In the middle of the night, the community's pulse is still evident, if considerably slowed. It is evidenced by the janitor cleaning up after the daytime crowds, the graveyard-shift cashier who has time to chat.

Also, the stock clerk replenishing the shelves for a hungry tomorrow, the bar patron seeking solace and a familiar face, the waitress at the all night diner, taking care of the needs of the moment and the ever vigilant police officer.

The reasons people are out and about late at night are varied. Many cleave to the night out of necessity—their jobs demand it. Others are voluntary creatures of the wee hours.

"I don't really like morning or day. I like night time, when everything is settled down. I've always been that way, even when I was working," said Alton Erwin, a retired fashion merchandiser/designer, who,
on any night, can be found occupying a stool at Dan B's Bar.

"I just got through working and came in for a couple beers to help me sleep," said security guard Donald Minor, who can often be found inhabiting a stool adjacent to Erwin's.

Erwin and Minors' insomnia are self-induced but Walter Cheramie, a stock clerk at Delchamp's Supermarket in Waveland, only does it for a living.

"It gets boring after a while, listening to elevator music all the time," said Cheramie.
"It's the best shift there is.

It's the best shift there is.

It's quiet," piped in Brigg Davis,
a co-worker of Charamie's.

Debbie Ashworth, a

Delchamp's cashier, has worked the 10 p.m to 7 a.m. shift for almost four years.

"It's alright. There's no other shift available. Besides, I'm the only one around crazy enough to do it." Ashworth, said do it," Ashworth said.

Bay St. Louis and Waveland may barely move after the sun goes down but, yes—there is life after dark.

Lions Club to form youth organization

A new youth organization, open to all young people, ages 13 through 18, has been announced by the Hancock County Lions Club.

The Lions will sponsor a Leo Club, whose members will have the opportunity to initiate community service projects of their own choosing.

In announcing the formation of the Leo Club, Raymond Rome, Hancock County Lions Club president, noted that the young people of Hancock County have tremendous talent and energy and view the needs of the community from a definite perspective.

The Leo Club will provide them with the opportunity to join together to develop their own approaches to solving community problems.

The Lions will advise members, but they will be free to design their own projects and elect their own officers. Leos will also have their own budget.

Lions Clubs have fostered youth activities for years. Among community service groups, they are the largest single sponsors of Boy Scouts units in the world. They also operate a youth exchange and youth camp program which includes several nations.

The Leo Club program was formally adopted by the International Association of Lions Clubs in 1968 and has for its purpose the development of leadership potential and community service in young people. Friendship and mutual understanding are other essential goals of Leo Clubs.

'Project Learning Tree' workshops offered

Mississippi's Fifth Project Learning Tree leadership workshop for teachers and other youth educators will be held March 22-23 at Roosevelt State Park near Morton, according to State PLT Coordinator Bill

Project Learning Tree is an exciting, hands-on supplementary environmental education curriculum for grades K-12 now endorsed and being used in 49 states, Canada, Sweden and Finland. It uses the forest as a "window" into all the wonders of the environment.

Its more than 175 environment-oriented activities are aimed at providing youngsters with a solid foundation for making wise decisions on the environment as they grow to adulthoood.

Project Learning Tree was introduced in Mississippi in mid-May of 1987 and has received enthusiastic support across the education and resource spectrum. PLT's primary sponsors in Mississippi include the Mississippi Forestry Commission, Mississippi Forestry Association and the Mississippi National Forests.

More than two dozen other educational, natural resource and civic organizations are supporting the program's entrance into Mississippi's educational

Participants in the March 22-23 leadership workshop will become certified trainers in the use of PLT activity manuals and supplemental materials.

A national study showed that nine of every 10 teachers who take the PLT training are using the activities in their classroom on a regular, ongoing basis.

Workshops can be scheduled for as few as 8-10 teachers. Scout leaders, 4-H, garden clubs and other youth leaders, or as many as 40-50. Those interested in scheduling a Project Learning Tree workshop should contact Colvin at 301 N. Lamar Street, S-300, Jackson, MS 39201, or phone 359-1386.
